

A Journey of Faith and Courage

Apprehensive and wary about her trip down the mountain for more supplies, Carol, wife and mother finds herself in unsuspected intrigue and fear as she discovers her town under siege by the military. Finding a friend of her sons, Jack, hiding, she hears from him that all of the townspeople are controlled. When the military discovers someone is out of the control area they spare nothing to chance. Jack and Carol are tracked and hunted with armed vehicles, helicopters, tanks and sensor detectors. This convinces Carol that she and Jack must seek help at all cost; because they are the only ones to go for the help. Their only weapon is faith in their skills and wit, and courage to use them. And use them they do. This quest institutes a dangerous pursuit, fearing at times the two of them will not live to succeed.
